

RELEASE IN FULL

From: H <hrod17@clintonemail.com>
Sent: Sunday, June 6, 2010 4:08 PM
To: 'slaughtera@state.gov'
Subject: Re: Larger impact of hard work on Haiti

That's gratifying. Now we just have to make the rebuilding work--no easy task.

----- Original Message -----

From: Slaughter, Anne-Marie <SlaughterA@state.gov>
To: H; Mills, Cheryl D <MillsCD@state.gov>
Sent: Sat Jun 05 16:20:47 2010
Subject: Larger impact of hard work on Haiti

From an INR report just released:

Western Europe: Publics Credit U.S. for Relief to Haiti

Britons, French, Germans, Italians, and Spaniards say the United States has done more than other countries to assist Haiti following the devastating January earthquake. Though relief efforts in Haiti have not themselves directly impacted opinion of the United States, the belief that the United States generally assists disaster-stricken countries does positively affect U.S. image.